WELCOME TO 2024

Exhilarating music heard live can be a life-changing experience.

When there are only a few metres between you and the world's greatest musicians, you can feel the power of the music. The sound waves, the atmosphere. That's something that only live music can create.

In 2024, discover an extraordinary season of concerts.

It is a season full of landmarks and large-scale epics that can only be truly experienced live, alongside music full of the most intimate moments.

We mark 150 years of Arnold Schoenberg with the Sydney premiere of his epic love story Gurrelieder, featuring 125 musicians and 200 singers. We join in the global celebrations for Anton Bruckner's 200th anniversary, performing his Eighth Symphony – a true cathedral of sound.

You will be able to discover major voices in new music. I am delighted to be directing the Australian premiere of French composer Camille Pépin's exquisite Violin Concerto. Deborah Cheetham Fraillon's Eumeralla, A War Requiem for Peace, a powerful reminder of our own history, and Wata by Paul Grabowsky, a song of new beginnings, both receive their Sydney premieres.

We are excited to present Ngapa William Cooper, a wonderful new collaboration between Nigel Westlake, Lior and Lou Bennett, that brings to light a moving and fascinating story of compassion.

World-renowned artists will bring their enormous talent and creativity to Sydney, including Renaud Capuçon, Augustin Hadelich, Víkingur Ólafsson, Alban Gerhardt, Ying Fang, Nobuyuki Tsujii and Ingrid Fliter. Spanish pianist Javier Perianes returns to continue our rediscovery of Beethoven's piano concertos.

As the year unfolds, you will be able to share in the vision of esteemed conducting colleagues, including Sir Donald Runnicles, Dalia Stasevska, Osmo Vänskä, Vasily Petrenko, Sir Andrew Davis and Eduardo Strausser.

And I am thrilled to continue our multi-year Ring Cycle in concert with Wagner's Die Walküre, bringing a truly world-class cast of Australian and international singers to Sydney – including Anja Kampe, Michaela Schuster and our very own Stuart Skelton – for this once in a generation event.

It is a season full of unforgettable moments that simply must be experienced live. I hope you will join us.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS MAHLER'S FIFTH SYMPHONY

The blazing energy of Mahler's Fifth Symphony is truly breathtaking live. In a celebrated Sydney tradition, Chief Conductor Simone Young opens our season with one of Mahler's sublime symphonies in a concert of passionate and electrifying music.

Mahler's Fifth Symphony is an extraordinary creation in both sound and scale. This vast musical journey builds from a luminous fanfare from a single trumpet to moments of great explosive power and a poignant contemplation of love in the Adagietto – one of the best-loved movements in all of music. Under the dynamic direction of Simone Young, Mahler's vast architecture is revealed, and his stunning colours burn bright.

A rising star, French composer Camille Pépin has created an enchanting expression of life's technicolour with her Violin Concerto. A work of long, shimmering chords, suspended and weightless, has a peerless interpreter in Renaud Capuçon, who, together with Simone Young, gave the world premiere of the work with the Orchestre National de France in May 2022. Co-commissioned by the Sydney Symphony, it's our turn to hear this duo deliver Pépin's compelling new work.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS GURRELIEDER

Arnold Schoenberg's Gurrelieder is a musical tapestry of monumental scale, requiring an orchestra of 125 musicians and a chorus of more than 200. With musical forces of this size a live performance is likely to be a once in a lifetime experience.

Performed in Sydney for the first time to celebrate Schoenberg's 150th birthday, this huge work is the composer at his most romantic, a vast sound world for a beautifully crafted tale of love and loss.

Adapted from Danish legend, this masterpiece rivals any fantasy epic with its themes of passion, jealousy and the quest for love that transcends life.

As the story unfolds, Gurrelieder's captivating, hypnotic melodies and vast choral music emerge in waves building to one of the most beautifully realised sunrises in all music.

In a musical landmark, Chief Conductor Simone Young leads the Sydney Symphony in this extraordinary work for the first time in the Orchestra's history. An all-star cast includes celebrated tenor Simon O'Neill and the extraordinary German soprano Ricarda Merbeth making her long-awaited return to Sydney.

On a Sydney Opera House Concert Hall stage that will almost double in size, the Sydney Symphony will be joined by musicians from the Australian National Academy of Music and a massed choir.

It seems appropriate that the last great Romantic building of the 20th century will house this ravishing work of power, grace and beauty. An unmissable experience.

SCHUMANN'S SECOND SYMPHONY WITH SIMONE YOUNG

Chief Conductor Simone Young presents warm, gleaming works by Robert Schumann and Peggy Glanville-Hicks.

Peggy Glanville-Hicks' Three Gymnopédies are jewels, revealing endless character in just a short space of time. Glanville-Hicks was fascinated by Greek culture, and you can almost hear the azure waves of the Mediterranean lapping in these wonderful works.

Written a century earlier, Robert Schumann's Second Symphony continues the symphonic tradition created by Haydn, Mozart and Beethoven. Its shimmering melodies beam with joy and unbridled enthusiasm in a wonderfully delicate reminder of music's restorative power.

Our Great Classics performance also includes Beethoven's sunny, optimistic Second Symphony which captures the composer at the very moment he was revealing a unique artistic voice and announcing a new musical age.

With Simone Young's great passion for these three composers, these works combine for performances of delightful exuberance and brilliance. Prepare to be swept off your feet.

VÍKINGUR ÓLAFSSON PERFORMS BACH'S GOLDBERG VARIATIONS

'Bach at the keyboard has rarely sounded so fresh, expressive and joyous.' (Sunday Times)

In his first Australian appearances, Vikingur Ólafsson performs Bach's complete Goldberg Variations at the Sydney Opera House Concert Hall – a fitting space for a phenomenal work. And such incredible talent. Since bursting onto the international scene in 2017, Ólafsson has taken the world by storm, combining a contemporary sensibility with flawless technique.

Bach's Goldberg Variations are gorgeously enigmatic musical gems, and Ólafsson makes them sparkle. No matter how many times you turn this work over, how many times you hold it up to the light, there's always more to discover.

A gentle theme opens the work, followed by thirty short variations, each overflowing with experimentation and daring. A universe of musical possibility. The finale is marked by a return to the beginning. After a journey of transformations, textures and harmonies, we are the ones who have arrived alongside the artist. It's a breathtaking conclusion to a remarkable experience with a pianist of supreme musical intelligence and style.

BEETHOVEN'S THIRD SYMPHONY

With his Third Symphony, Beethoven reimagined the possibilities of the symphony. Breaking boundaries with size, scale and emotional content, Beethoven shot the music world into a new century with this, his 'Heroic' symphony. Beginning with two giant chords that open to a landscape of thrilling power, the symphony builds to final movements that are bright, bold and triumphant.

With these concerts, Icelandic phenomenon Vikingur Ólafsson makes his Australian concerto debut. Ólafsson's exquisite performances have captivated audiences and inspired legions of new classical fans: 'whatever he plays, Ólafsson treats the music with equal distinction: articulation wonderfully fleet and clean; the phrasing flexible, always alive; the range of touch in his fingers stretching into infinity,' wrote The Times (London). Here he brings a contemporary touch to Ravel's Piano Concerto, an ideal challenge for a soloist of such virtuosity.

Principal Guest Conductor Sir Donald Runnicles, renowned for creating experiences of great expressive power and distinction, leads these performances.

DONALD RUNNICLES CONDUCTS THE PROTECTING VEIL

Donald Runnicles

Principal Guest Conductor Sir Donald Runnicles has created a program of inspiring, uplifting music for the spirit, with works by Wagner, Tavener and Mendelssohn.

John Tavener was one of the most inspired geniuses of the late 20th century. Deeply connected to ancient traditions, he dedicated his life to expressing beauty and truth through music. In The Protecting Veil he created an exquisite universe, awe-inspiring and intensely beautiful. Full of delicate, weightless chords that float over the concert hall.

English cellist Matthew Barley is the ideal soloist for this deeply touching meditation for cello and orchestra, his recent recording of it praised as a 'performance of great tenderness and eloquence' by BBC Music Magazine.

Wagner's 'Good Friday Spell' from Parsifal is the ideal way into this program. A bright and ecstatic celebration of life and the world, the triumphant sound of the brass is enchanting and delightful. After the contemplation of Tavener, Mendelssohn's triumphant Fifth Symphony is the perfect way to send you back out into the world.

This is transformative music that touches the soul and lifts the spirits.

MENDELSSOHN'S OCTET

Catherine Hewgill, Principal Cello/Reza Bagheri

When 16-year-old Felix Mendelssohn completed his Octet in 1825, the prodigious young composer created a whole new genre of chamber music. Unfolding over 30 completely captivating minutes, the work for four violins, two violas and two cellos was the first of its kind – and 200 years on has rarely been bettered.

A work of extraordinary invention and meticulous string writing, the Octet calls on every imaginable combination of voices possible from just eight players. One critic summed it up when he wrote, 'Its youthful verve, brilliance and perfection make it one of the miracles of nineteenth-century music.'

A century earlier, Georg Philipp Telemann was an important link between the late Baroque and early Classical styles, and a major influence on Mendelssohn. His concertos for four solo violins are exquisite works, the strings weaving and dancing around each other with great verve and energy. It's not hard to imagine Mendelssohn taking inspiration from these intricate delights.

Join the string musicians of the Sydney Symphony for a truly sparkling evening of music in the Sydney Opera House Utzon Room.

OSMO VÄNSKÄ CONDUCTS THE MUSIC OF SIBELIUS

Sibelius' music is intimately connected to the expansive beauty of his native Finland. His poetic notes hang in the air like snowflakes; with wind whistling through frozen forests, the music is a sensory delight.

Conductor Osmo Vänskä is universally acknowledged as 'our greatest living Sibelian' (Sunday Times) – his interpretations of his countryman's music has been hailed for their 'marvellous energy and dramatic fire' (The Guardian). For this event, Vänskä has chosen pieces that bring to life Finnish myths and legends through Sibelius' rich and evocative soundworld: the creation of the world in Luonnotar and the heroic Lemminkäinen Suite including the beloved The Swan of Tuonela.

Vänskä is joined by acclaimed Finnish soprano Helena Juntunen for a selection of songs. Juntunen 'commands her audience's attention [with a] shimmering stream of glistening tone' (Bachtrack), and is the ideal singer for these heartfelt, richly textured works.

This is a program of original and profound music with elemental forces, raging outside and within. Does love burn brighter in a cold place? Discover the answer in this special Sydney Symphony celebration of Sibelius and the beauty of his homeland.

John Bell/Pierre Toussaint

Shakespeare's plays have inspired composers for centuries, and none more so than The Tempest. A raging storm, a shipwreck, a usurping duke and an enchanted fairy: it has been fertile soil for composers including Purcell, Sibelius and Tchaikovsky.

Conductor Umberto Clerici has curated this special performance with music by these great composers, presented alongside excerpts from Shakespeare's play performed by one of Australia's greatest-ever actors, John Bell.

Just as Prospero cast his spells on the inhabitants of his desert island, so too will John Bell and the Sydney Symphony enchant the Sydney Opera House Concert Hall in this very special presentation.

WHEN GEORGE MET ARNOLD

Arnold Schoenberg, George Gershwin/Supplied

When George Gershwin moved from New York to a new house in Hollywood in 1936, he discovered that the legendary Viennese composer Arnold Schoenberg lived around the corner. These two geniuses of the 20th century struck up an unlikely friendship, playing tennis together every week, discussing music, art, love and the political situation in Europe.

When George Met Arnold is a unique event which combines a newly created film with live performance of selected works by both composers to tell the story of this remarkable relationship. The Sydney Symphony is joined by co-creators pianist Simon Tedeschi and conductor Roger Benedict.

2024 is the 150th anniversary of Schoenberg's birth and also the 100th anniversary of the premiere of Gershwin's Rhapsody in Blue – the perfect moment to present this poignant story of memory, trauma, friendship, humour and hope, and above all the power of music.

Featuring works by GERSHWIN and SCHOENBERG, including excerpts from Gershwin's Piano Concerto in F and Porgy & Bess, and Schoenberg's Piano Concerto, Pelléas and Mélisande and Five Pieces for Orchestra.

Sydneysiders have always flocked to Uzbek pianist Behzod Abduraimov, and his virtuosity will be on full display in Prokofiev's Second Piano Concerto – a work of bubbling, cascading vitality that's one of the most fiendishly difficult piano concertos. DVOŘÁK & BERNSTEIN

Scott Kimmont, Associate Principal Trombone,
Nick Byrne, Trombone/Keith Saunders

Rich and colourful expressions of America shine through in this heart-warming program.

Dvořák wrote his American string quartet when visiting the Czech-speaking colony of Spillville, Iowa, in 1893, finding there a balance between Old and New Worlds, and a way to express his love of Czech and American folk music in classical forms. The quartet has a poise and balance, with each member of the ensemble given time in the spotlight.

A world away from Spillville, the hustle of New York City was captured by Leonard Bernstein in West Side Story. In this arrangement for brass quintet, experience the bold and energising sounds of that beloved musical; it's the perfect accompaniment for Fire Dance by Emmy Award-winning composer, Anthony DiLorenzo, a three-and-a-half-minute stunner that will leave you breathless.

JOYCE YANG PERFORMS
GRIEG'S PIANO CONCERTO

Joyce Yang/KT Kim

Grammy-nominated pianist Joyce Yang brings her 'vivid and beautiful playing' (New York Times) to a program that excites on every level. Grieg's Piano Concerto and Dvořák's New World Symphony are both expansive, phenomenal works. And thrilling to hear live.

Prepare for moments of drama, as in the iconic opening of Grieg's Piano Concerto. This is a work that is colourful and intensely lyrical, with a beautiful Adagio and a folk music-inflected final movement. And don't miss Yang letting loose in the wildly entertaining cadenza.

Dvořák was inspired to write his New World Symphony after moving to America and experiencing its open spaces and sense of freedom. The work is packed with memorable melodies and delightful tension. He incorporated American roots music and spirituals into his vast musical canvas, creating a new musical language for a new world.

This is also a rare opportunity to hear work by Missy Mazzoli, a 'symphonic composer with a photographer's eye' (NPR). These Worlds in Us is wonderfully cinematic, with a real sense of yearning and all her hallmark inventiveness.

JOYCE YANG IN RECITAL

Joyce Yang/KT Kim

Joyce Yang's performances have been praised as 'extraordinary' and 'kaleidoscopic' (Los Angeles Times), and for this solo recital the Grammy-nominated pianist has selected an evocative and thrilling program that demonstrates the full range of her virtuosity and 'wondrous sense of colour' (San Francisco Classical Voice).

Experience Tchaikovsky's The Seasons, a rare jewel evoking the many moods of the natural world – from sitting by the fireside in winter to spring's joyous bloom. Joyce Yang has also picked three Rachmaninov preludes that are among the most technically demanding, full of dramatic, powerful chords, rich textures and expansive feelings.

Stravinsky's Firebird draws on Russian folklore and cemented the composer's standing as one of his era's most exciting and imaginative composers.

Mussorgsky's Pictures at an Exhibition is a stirring finale. While inspired by actual artworks, this music occupies a far grander canvas. Feel your heart swell during the huge, splendid chords in The Great Gate of Kyiv and discover what 'breathtaking' truly means.

NGAPA WILLIAM COOPER

Lior, Lou Bennett, Nigel Westlake/Supplied

'A work of both outstanding musical quality and extraordinary cultural significance.' (Limelight)

A rich new collaboration between composer Nigel Westlake, singer/songwriter Lior and language activist Lou Bennett, Ngapa William Cooper is a tribute to the life of Yorta Yorta activist William Cooper.

In 1938, Cooper played a pivotal role in establishing equal rights for Aboriginal Australians, led the only non-Jewish protest worldwide against the events of Kristallnacht in Nazi Germany. This new work is a way of preserving and promoting his legacy and bringing to light this remarkable act of compassion.

Ngapa William Cooper combines Westlake's signature rich musical palette with moving vocals from Lior and Bennett. Sung in English and Yorta Yorta language, this powerful story celebrates a man who left behind a legacy of resistance, solidarity and empathy.

This performance will also feature Frederick Septimus Kelly's Elegy in Memoriam Rupert Brooke. The Australian composer's work, written while he was in the trenches at Gallipoli, speaks equally powerfully to compassion and our shared humanity.

THE SYDNEY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WITH THE AUSTRALIAN STRING QUARTET

In a unique presentation, the superb Australian String Quartet will join the Sydney Symphony to perform Absolute Jest by American composer John Adams, a work that takes small fragments of Beethoven's music and develops them into something new, and newly inspiring.

Adams' music is rhythmic, minimalist and utterly compelling. Focusing on small musical fragments that repeat and evolve, the work unfolds into a rich and deep experience. Brilliantly incorporating amplified string quartet and orchestra, the intimate interplay of the quartet unfurls into a vast soundworld of a symphony orchestra.

Ravel and Schoenberg were both genius orchestrators, utilising every tone of every instrument to realise their respective visions. Ravel's tribute to French Baroque composer François Couperin takes a suite of courtly dances and transforms them into evocative, cinematic gems that are unmistakably Ravel's own.

Schoenberg's orchestration of Brahms' First Piano Quartet is a gorgeous example of a huge contemporary imagination building on an historic work. Schoenberg's ability to draw colour from an orchestra may, in this triumphant reimagining, even match that of Brahms himself.

THE SPLENDOUR OF THE BAROQUE

Delight in this special one-off performance of sparkling Baroque gems as acclaimed early music specialist Erin Helyard leads the exciting young musicians of the Sydney Symphony Orchestra Fellowship Program in works by Telemann and Graupner.

Baroque music overflows with its precise, crystalline beauty. Each of these hand-picked pieces gives every Fellow their moment in the spotlight, contrasted with captivating textures for the whole ensemble.

Georg Philipp Telemann was one of the most important composers of the late Baroque and early Classical era, writing myriad works for combinations no one had ever attempted. His intricate and energetic works for small ensemble inspired all those who came after him, including JS Bach and Handel – and Christoph Graupner. Graupner was an influential and prolific composer in his own right, and his work bubbles and bursts with all the grandeur and character of the era. His music is now being rediscovered – in this energising concert, hear why he deserves to sit alongside the greats of the Baroque.

VAUGHAN WILLIAMS & SHOSTAKOVICH

Shostakovich's fifteen string quartets are some of the finest works for small ensemble, and alongside those of Haydn and Beethoven, are indispensable. His ninth was composed in 1964 and came during a period of relative happiness and artistic freedom following the terrors of the Stalin years.

Written to be performed without any break, this quartet positively fizzes with energy, with richness and detail in both structure and texture. Experience all sides of the composer, from the traditionalist who worshipped Bach to the modern creator who found so much inspiration in jazz.

Ralph Vaughan Williams rarely composed chamber music, but what he did write is magnificent. His Phantasy Quintet displays all the trademarks of his style: rich textures, exquisite harmonies and melodic lines that soar high above muscular lower notes. It's a symphony in miniature.

There is so much to discover in this special event, and two perfect opportunities for collaboration between superb musicians.

ALEXANDER MELNIKOV PERFORMS SHOSTAKOVICH

Alexander Melnikov/Julien Mignot

The dazzling musical fireworks of Shostakovich's Festive Overture are pure entertainment, and the perfect way to open this program of triumphant, witty and brilliant virtuosity from two extraordinary soloists, conducted by the exciting Giordano Bellincampi.

Pianist Alexander Melnikov brings his impressive Russian energy to Shostakovich's First Piano Concerto. Principal Trumpet David Elton weaves a tender, sombre magic in its delightfully wistful passages. But this is Shostakovich, so the story doesn't end there; he continues on a spellbinding journey, to a finale where strings soar and the trumpet returns for an amazing conclusion.

Loaded with themes of lust, valour and tragedy, Richard Strauss' energetic sound charms from the beginning. Strauss took rich tales as inspiration for his tone poems, masterfully extracting every ounce of colour from the orchestra to describe the escapades of his story-book heroes Don Juan and Till Eulenspiegel.

Every tale here is told with beauty and magnificence, presenting us with enthralling and very human portraits.

ALEXANDER MELNIKOV IN RECITAL

Alexander Melnikov/Julien Mignot

With three Romantic masterpieces performed by a Russian master, this concert is a treat for anyone who loves the piano.

Alexander Melnikov is one of the world's most admired pianists, the inheritor of the full richness of the Russian piano tradition. The Guardian rated him 'the interpreter of choice for [Shostakovich's] piano work,' and his countless accolades include awards from Gramophone and BBC Music Magazine, the Diapason d'Or and many others. His energy and virtuosity illuminate every piece he touches.

Experience the many sides of Melnikov's virtuosity in this wonderfully expansive program with his masterful command of Brahms' lyricism and Schubert's dizzying architecture. Melnikov impresses in both before diving headlong into Debussy's Impressionistic masterpieces – all highly expressive and rich with colour and atmosphere.

Take in every wonderful movement, and Melnikov's fabulous talent. The warm surroundings of the City Recital Hall provide the perfect space for a romantic night out.

HANDEL'S WATER MUSIC

Matthew Wilkie, Principal Emeritus Bassoon; Marnie Sabire, Horn; Rachel Silver, Horn; Euan Harvey, Horn

This concert, directed by the brilliant Erin Helyard, is a celebration of the spectacular.

Handel's Water Music was an 18th-century show stopper. Commissioned by King George I for a concert on the Thames, all of London turned out to see Handel and his orchestra floating up and down the river on a barge, playing this exciting, lavish music. It's a foot-tapping party on and off stage, and was such a hit the King demanded an immediate encore!

Pisendel's Imitation des caractères de la danse is pure Baroque elegance. In just a few short minutes it captures the spirit of different courtly dances and all their refined elegance. Listen as the musicians of the Sydney Symphony dance and swirl around each other.

This is a rare chance to hear our musicians shine in a smaller orchestra, with each virtuosic line ringing out into the City Recital Hall.

DALIA STASEVSKA CONDUCTS SIBELIUS' FIFTH SYMPHONY

Rebecca Shaw

Maybe it's the extreme isolation, focusing the creative mind. Perhaps it's growing up surrounded by stunning natural beauty. There is no denying Finland has produced more than its share of exquisite orchestral music.

Finnish conductor Dalia Stasevska conducts this program of works by her homeland's greatest composers – Sibelius' extraordinary Fifth Symphony, Einojuhani Rautavaara's Cantus Arcticus and Kaija Saariaho's Harp Concerto featuring soloist Xavier de Maistre.

As Chief Conductor of the acclaimed Lahti Symphony Orchestra, Stasevska has a natural affinity for Sibelius' imagery. Her interpretations are fresh and exciting, delivered with a deft precision that can only be Finnish.

Soloist Xavier de Maistre weaves crystalline moments of beauty, cascading in kaleidoscopic fashion in the harp concerto written especially for him by Kaija Saariaho. Voted the greatest living composer by BBC Music Magazine, this is an important moment to celebrate the now departed giant of the world of music.

SAINT-SAËNS' ORGAN SYMPHONY

Pulling out all the stops. It's curious to think an expression used by everyone from fashion designers to footballers was derived from something as historic as the organ. This phenomenal instrument is a conduit for drama. And when all the stops are out, it's electrifying – especially when in the presence of the Sydney Opera House Grand Organ, the world's largest mechanical tracker-action pipe organ, consisting of an extraordinary 10,244 pipes.

Virtuoso French organist Olivier Latry is one of the world's top organists. A professor at the Paris Conservatoire, he was appointed organist at Notre Dame Cathedral at just 23 – and in this program with conductor Stéphane Denève, he brings his fabulous technique to two great works by two French masters.

There's no one better than Latry to take on the power of Saint-Saëns' Organ Symphony, one of the most famous symphonies of all time. This work is pure feel-good romanticism, full of soaring emotional moments.

Poulenc's Concerto brings to the organ a world of ethereal beauty. Subtle and introspective, it provides a wonderful contrast to the Saint-Saëns.

Consisting of big displays of French talent, we've pulled out all the stops for this exhilarating show.

THE SYDNEY SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA WITH JESS GILLAM

'Gillam spreads joy.' (The Times)

Jess Gillam may only be 25, but the British saxophonist is already a star. With her natural energy, infectious personality and talent to spare, she was the first saxophonist to reach the finals of BBC Young Musician and the youngest-ever soloist to perform at the Last Night of the Proms. An extraordinary talent, she has already been awarded honours for services to music.

And can she play.

Her natural effervescence make her the perfect choice for Michael Nyman's Where the Bee Dances. This marriage of saxophone and orchestra launches with expressive, driving rhythms and an irresistible arrangement. Gillam brings her vivid and bright playing to the piece, losing herself in its swirling drive. Don't miss this exuberant and entirely original performer.

Rachmaninov's Symphonic Dances forms the ideal companion work. With its absorbing harmonies, sumptuous tone colours and intoxicating rhythms, the last piece Rachmaninov ever composed captures everything that made him one of the 20th century's best-loved composers.

Czech composer Leoš Janáček wrote his wind sextet Mládí (Youth) when he was 70, capturing the youthful mood characteristic of his works from this period. The writing is anything but juvenile, richly textured and deceptively complex, bursting with enthusiasm and virtuosity.

Maurice Ravel wrote his gripping Sonata for Violin and Cello in 1920, and dedicated it to the memory of his friend and colleague, Claude Debussy. There are moments of glowing textures that recall Debussy, and the incredibly detailed and intricate interplay of the two instruments is trademark Ravel. This enchanting duet is a thrilling musical adventure.

Argentinian composer Astor Piazzolla brought the sounds and rhythms of Argentinian tango into the concert hall, creating a new blend of tango, jazz and classical music known as nuevo tango (new tango). These pieces are among his finest and showcase the expressive richness and sophisticated harmonies that are so characteristic of his writing.

WATA: A GATHERING FOR SONGMEN, IMPROVISING SOLOISTS AND ORCHESTRA

Daniel Wilfred, David Wilfred/Supplied

In one of the most innovative and energising works for 2024, composer and pianist Paul Grabowsky brings the Sydney Symphony Orchestra and Yolŋu songmen Daniel Ngukurr Boy Wilfred and David Yipininy Wilfred together in a work that celebrates the musical traditions of the Ngukurr people in Arnhem Land.

Wata means many things: it is a part of a ceremonial song cycle, part of the manikay (public song) tradition of the Ngukurr people. It is also a purification ritual, a song of new beginnings, of release, of flight, and connection to land, ancestry and hope for the future.

With complex patterns of yidaki and bilma forming the building blocks, musicians of the Sydney Symphony and guest improvising soloists weave in and out of the songs led by Daniel Wilfred and David Wilfred, guided by Grabowsky's powerful orchestration.

Wata is an invitation to experience a new form of musical collaboration within the manikay tradition, inside the Sydney Opera House Concert Hall. It's exciting, invigorating and spontaneous. Come experience the expansive warmth and astonishing musicality of Wata. It's totally life affirming.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS BEETHOVEN'S FIFTH SYMPHONY

Simone Young/Peter Bevan-Brew

With the most famous four notes in history, the opening to Beethoven's Fifth Symphony has captivated the world for more than 200 years. Its power has never diminished. Composed while his deafness was becoming overwhelming, and amidst the occupation of Vienna by Napoleon's troops, this was Beethoven's bold statement in defiance of fate.

There is always a huge amount to rediscover in this stirring and powerful symphony and in Simone Young's irresistible interpretation, with her trademark energy, Beethoven's extraordinary vision sparkles.

Fifteen years before the Fifth, Beethoven announced himself to Vienna with his First Piano Concerto. Written to showcase his virtuosic playing, its melodic ideas and daring harmonies revealed a unique and astonishing new musical force to the world. In Beethoven, Spanish pianist Javier Perianes makes 'the piano sing and glitter with alert, polished brilliance' (Sydney Morning Herald).

Christopher Sainsbury's String Talk combines Indigenous traditions with Western classical forms, a juxtaposition that invites us to re-examine what we know and love about classical music. Simone Young, Javier Perianes, Sainsbury and Beethoven – a rich musical feast that will enchant you from the very start.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS TCHAIKOVSKY'S FOURTH SYMPHONY

Simone Young

The iconic blast of the horns at the beginning of Tchaikovsky's Fourth Symphony is the first of many power-packed moments in this program of dramatic contrasts. Here, Tchaikovsky's riveting opening is followed by a tender, elegiac slow movement; the lively string-playing in the sparkling third movement is followed by a triumphant finale.

This symphony was a turning point for Tchaikovsky's writing, combining Western musical styles with Russian fables and storytelling. This is the high point of Russian Romanticism, with the breadth of human experience in glorious evidence. Chief Conductor Simone Young draws out all the passion and colour of this immortal work.

For Prokofiev's Sinfonia Concertante, Simone Young reunites with long-time collaborator Alban Gerhardt. A superstar cellist at the peak of his powers, Gerhardt extracts every moment of expressive richness from this piece, revelling in its phenomenal range that moves from resonant bass notes to melodies that soar high above the orchestra. Not just a brilliant virtuoso, Gerhardt is unbelievably charismatic, making deep and intimate connections with audiences everywhere he goes. You'll understand why he is regarded as one of the world's musical greats.

AUGUSTIN HADELICH PERFORMS MENDELSSOHN'S VIOLIN CONCERTO

Violin sensation Augustin Hadelich returns with Mendelssohn's exquisite Violin Concerto, led by Chief Conductor Simone Young.

'A violin masterclass... beg, borrow or steal a ticket' was how the Sydney Morning Herald described Augustin Hadelich's Sydney Symphony debut performances in 2022. He'd barely left the stage before being signed up for a return visit. In the meantime, the critical raves have continued: 'technically dazzling' (New York Times); 'pinpoint intonation and tone... masterly' (LA Times).

Mendelssohn's Violin Concerto is the ultimate star vehicle, equal parts richly expressive and dizzyingly virtuosic. In Hadelich's hands, and with his 1744 Guarneri 'del Gesù' violin, every ounce of Hadelich's huge artistry will shine through in this masterpiece.

Anton Bruckner's Eighth Symphony has been described as a cathedral of music. It must be heard live to fully experience its amazing colours. The Guardian declared it 'one of the most existentially thrilling experiences a symphony has ever created.' Simone Young, 'a Bruckner conductor of the greatest integrity and inspiration' (MusicWeb International), presents Bruckner's bold original version of this symphony.

2024 marks the 200th anniversary of Bruckner's birth, and as one of his great champions, Simone Young will be conducting his work around the world. This is Sydney's moment to experience Simone Young's celebrated interpretation, and an absorbing and rich invitation to the composer's astonishing sound world.

BEETHOVEN'S SEPTET

Francesco Celata, Associate Principal Clarinet/Reza Bagheri

Beethoven's Septet was one of his most successful early works, an instant hit that found its way into the drawing rooms of the Viennese public. With its breezy air, six short, characterful movements, and ample opportunity for individual solos, it was understandably a popular party piece. And in the expert hands of the Sydney Symphony's musicians, we can experience all the delights it has to offer.

Although Anton Webern is best known for his later works, his early music is steeped in the richness of the late 19th century. His Langsamer Satz (Slow Movement) was written for a proposed string quartet and was inspired by a holiday in the mountains outside of Vienna with his future wife. All of that emotion spills out in this highly charged work, from romantic yearning to emotional turmoil before, finally, a peaceful resolution.

EUMERALLA, A WAR REQUIEM FOR PEACE BY DEBORAH CHEETHAM FRAILLON

Eumeralla is a work two thousand generations in the making. When celebrated Yorta Yorta/Yuin soprano-composer Deborah Cheetham Fraillon visited Lake Condah in south-west Victoria, she was haunted by the voices of the Gunditjmara people who had lost their lives protecting their country.

Her immediate response was to write this powerful Requiem, to ease the troubled spirit of the land and to amplify the importance of our shared history.

Experience the colossal sound of Eumeralla in the Sydney Opera House Concert Hall in this milestone Sydney premiere. With a full symphony orchestra and massed choirs – including the voices of Dhungala Children's Choir – and sung entirely in the ancient dialects of the Gunditjmara people, Cheetham Fraillon has created a musical work that is a compelling call for peace and reconciliation.

Romance emerges in every tempo. It can be swift and bold, or a slow burn. Sometimes it is thrillingly insistent, as in the opening movement of Rachmaninov's Second Symphony. Sit with the music's quiet, delicious tension for a minute or two and be rewarded with a gorgeous section of cascading string melodies followed by a surge of invigorating music. Before you know it, you're beautifully engrossed in Rachmaninov's sweeping love story.

Stunning Canadian violinist Karen Gomyo, 'a first-rate artist of real musical command, vitality, brilliance and intensity' (The Chicago Tribune), will bring her remarkable artistry to the emotion, and draw out the down-to-earth folk melodies of Dvořák's native Bohemia.

DONALD RUNNICLES CONDUCTS THE DURUFLÉ REQUIEM

Sydney Philharmonia Choirs

Sir Donald Runnicles is a master concert-maker. His concerts are always fascinating combinations – and here he conducts three beautiful French masterpieces by Claude Debussy and Maurice Duruflé.

For the first time, the Sydney Symphony will perform Duruflé's Requiem. One of the undisputed masterpieces of the choral repertoire, it is exquisitely beautiful, and a poignant reflection on life. Allow your spirit to soar on the delicate vocal harmonies and swelling strings. Donald Runnicles has devoted his life to the idea that music can be a healing, nurturing experience and you couldn't wish for a better guide for this ethereal, contemplative work.

Two pieces by Debussy complete this program of evocative French music. Just as Monet injected new energy and vitality into French painting, Debussy discovered bold musical gestures and brilliant orchestral colours that made for mesmerising, dream-like experiences.

Australian soprano Anna Dowsley and a female choir star in the sensual and decadent La Dame à la Licorne, while that same choir transports you from gentle rolling clouds to festivities below and then to the ocean in the stunning Nocturnes. The immutable beauty of nature is drawn out of each note with unmatched nuance and subtlety.

Escape into a world of ethereal melodies and captivating harmonies.

Mahler's Fourth Symphony is full of radiance and beauty, brimming with a unique blend of sweetness and innocence. Across four breathtaking movements, Donald Runnicles will once again create a vivid, spellbinding musical picture.

It's the fourth movement that truly steals hearts. Mahler set to music a poem that depicts a child's vision of heaven, where angels play and beauty reigns supreme. It is the ideal moment for Ying Fang, the soprano with a voice 'that can stop time, pure and rich and open and consummately expressive' (Financial Times), to make her Sydney debut.

Experience another side to Ying Fang's extraordinary artistry when she performs orchestral songs by Richard Strauss. Beloved by singers and audiences alike for their exquisite poetry and sublime vocal lines, it is easy to understand why Ying Fang is already a favourite at New York's Metropolitan Opera and major opera houses across Europe.

TRANSFIGURED NIGHT

Andrew Haveron, Concertmaster/Niek Bowers

Night time is a charged time, liberated from the routine of daylight duties. Perhaps that's why composers seem to find life after dark so full of magic and possibility.

Schoenberg's Transfigured Night is based on a poem by German poet Richard Dehmel and features an emotionally charged scene between two lovers. It opens with an extraordinarily atmospheric section that draws us into the layered weight of night.

Beginning at sunset, this vivid program of three brilliant chamber pieces captures the sensuous depth and drama of night, directed here by our Concertmaster Andrew Haveron, alongside mezzo soprano Anna Dowsley.

Mozart's Serenata Notturna is classically elegant and entertaining. And Respighi's rare jewel Il Tramonto is based on a poem full of changing colours, moods and delicate harmonies. Just like the sunsets for which it is named.

GEORGE GERSHWIN'S AN AMERICAN IN PARIS

The Roaring Twenties was a time of heady optimism in Paris. Artists and composers of every genre flocked to the city, and this melting pot of influences saw rules broken and every boundary gleefully crossed in pursuit of new and exciting styles of music and art.

That joyous cross-pollination is immediately evident in these works by Gershwin, Stravinsky and Ravel. Gershwin brought the Jazz Age to the concert hall with An American in Paris. From its audacious opening to its explosive tunes, this is music that recreates the lively spirit of Paris, from its dance halls to its streets.

Ravel's Piano Concerto for the Left Hand features similarly jazzy rhythms, demanding enormous virtuosity from the pianist. In Konstantin Shamray we have one of Australia's finest, and he brings his 'rich, colourful palate of sound' (Limelight) to this extraordinary work.

Stravinsky's Pulcinella sees the composer looking back to more classical times. His trademark ingenuity shines through in the contrasts of instrumental voices, creating a work that feels familiar and excitingly new.

And in the hands of Sir Andrew Davis, one of the greatest English conductors, we will experience every bit of its profound emotion.

Rachmaninov's Third Piano Concerto fuses the best elements of his music, from lyrical melodies to ferocious and powerful passages that radiate brilliant musical colour. Superstar Japanese pianist Nobuyuki Tsujii performs Rachmaninov's most famous concerto with supreme virtuosity, revealing a beautiful and wistful world.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS MOZART'S JUPITER SYMPHONY

Simone Young presents three masterpieces that defined their eras and looked forward to the next.

Mozart's 41st and final symphony is one of the most enduring of his works. A striking and electrifying symphony, it was nicknamed 'Jupiter' by a music publisher who said its opening chords recalled the king of the gods and his thunderbolts. Here Mozart paints on a broader canvas than ever before, perfecting the Classical style and looking forward to the Romantic era.

Johann Sebastian Bach's genius has resonated joyfully through the centuries, and his extraordinary Brandenburg Concertos continue to stand out. They are lively and colourful, bursting with new sounds that the world still celebrates. Concerto No.3 is a beautiful demonstration of this, demanding brilliance from the string players of the Orchestra in a rare, intimate moment of chamber music in the Concert Hall.

Bach's son, Carl Philipp Emanuel, was a great composer in his own right, a key figure in the transition from the Baroque to the Classical eras. His Flute Concerto in G is a thrilling ride, and in the hands of our Principal Flute Joshua Batty we hear all of CPE's invention and daring.

Celebrated for her interpretation of this repertoire, Simone Young takes us back to where it all began in these brilliant foundational works.

INGRID FLITER PERFORMS CHOPIN

Chopin's glittering First Piano Concerto captures the powerful feelings of youth. Written when he was 20, it's a bold, unselfconscious journey of the heart and one of just two works he composed for orchestra.

Conducted by Eduardo Strausser, our soloist is the phenomenal Ingrid Fliter. One of the world's most celebrated interpreters of Chopin, she lands every captivating moment. As The Guardian put it, 'there's nothing small-scale about Fliter's performances. This is very much Chopin playing in the great tradition.'

Felix Mendelssohn exists in the very centre of the musical world. Hugely influential, he was a pivotal figure who would go on to revive Bach's music and champion Schubert, Schumann and Brahms. A prodigious composer from an early age, his Third Symphony was inspired by a visit to Scotland when he was 19. The mountains, moors, castles and keeps loom large in this symphony, which gives way to gorgeous passages that are Mendelssohn at his best. The symphony's rich orchestration is a perfect companion to Chopin's virtuoso concerto.

This concert is full of character and lyrical melodies by two young artists letting their imaginations run free, announcing themselves to the world as bold new voices.

Striking beauty

VASILY PETRENKO CONDUCTS THE RITE OF SPRING

Paris in the early 20th century was a cultural explosion of art, literature and music – and on stage the Ballet Russes was entirely reinventing the artform. Most revolutionary of all was The Rite of Spring, and Stravinsky's masterpiece still thrills as a work of astonishing intensity that feels both primal and strikingly modern.

From its compelling rhythmic drive to its stunning, awesome soundworld, The Rite continues to electrify more than a century after its premiere. And Vasily Petrenko, the celebrated music director of the Royal Philharmonic, is the work's ideal interpreter. BBC Music Magazine hailed his recent recording of it as 'a searing account' with 'a visceral energy' – now it's Sydney's turn to hear his phenomenal realisation of Stravinsky's mesmerising score.

In a concert full of drama and striking orchestral textures, Camille Saint-Saëns' First Cello Concerto casts the cellist as our hero. German-Canadian cellist Johannes Moser is a noted interpreter of this work, his recording praised by Gramophone for its 'overwhelming passion'. Performed on his 1694 Andrea Guarneri, you will hear why it is among the greatest of all cello concertos.

SIMONE YOUNG CONDUCTS DIE WALKÜRE

A merciless storm rages over Wotan's kingdom as his son Siegmund is pursued by brutal enemies. Chief Conductor Simone Young leads an all-star cast in Richard Wagner's vast, spectacular drama Die Walküre, the second instalment of his epic four-opera Ring Cycle. Presented in concert in a pure musical experience, Simone Young and the Orchestra's superb mastery of Wagner's extraordinary musical creation will be one of the year's most powerful moments.

A high point of artistic invention, Wagner's Ring Cycle is one of the greatest works of music. Its drama and energy are captured by its signature moment: The Ride of the Valkyries, which has become the most quoted musical passage from the entire world of opera. It is surrounded by writing of ravishing beauty and intensity which captures Brünnhilde's bold defiance, Wotan's shuddering wrath and Siegmund's heroism.

These performances provide the perfect platform for world-class soloists including Australian Stuart Skelton; Anja Kampe and Michaela Schuster, stars of the Berlin Staatsoper and Vienna Staatsoper; and Tommi Hakala, a brilliant new Wotan for the world stage.

Joining these distinguished artists is a stellar cast including Lithuanian-born soprano Vaida Miknevičiūtė and Australian luminaries including Deborah Humble and Helena Dix.

Wagner's epic legend was written for huge orchestral forces in order to produce an enormous, astonishing sound and create the 'total work of art'. Performed in Sydney for the first time in twenty-five years, Die Walküre is a musical triumph that you won't want to miss.

INSPIRING THE NEXT GENERATION

The Sydney Symphony has been inspiring the next generation of musicians and classical music lovers for over 90 years, both in the concert hall and the classroom.

In 2023 alone we were able to engage over 12,000 students across NSW with our education programs. We were also able to support music teachers with free resource kits and professional development workshops, and entire teaching communities with our school rewards program.

As we look to 2024 and beyond, we are excited to continue this important work and inspire a lifelong love of classical music in the next generation with the world's most powerful music.

SHARE THE MAGIC OF CLASSICAL MUSIC

Orchestral music has the power to enrich lives. Even change them. At the Sydney Symphony, we believe access to world class orchestral music is an essential human experience open to everyone.

With your help, we can continue our commitment to making orchestral music accessible to everyone and build brighter futures.

You'll be encouraging more people to attend concerts through affordable ticket prices and helping to share music with our wider community through regional touring and high-quality digital recordings.

Your contribution will also support educational programs created to engage more students and develop a love of classical music that will flow across generations.

Please support us with a tax-deductible donation as you complete your booking form, or call (02) 8215 4600 or visit sydney-symphony.com.au/donate
